POLES CAN KILL!

POLES CAN KILL!

Secretary Harrington of State Board of Health Finds Dangerous Preservatives, Feathers and Refuse in Food Sold by Big Packers.

In a canned food report made public to-day by Secretary Harrington of the Massachusetts State Board of Health he finds dangerous preservatives in the goods sold to Massachusetts consumers. He finds that certain highly advertised brands of "boned chicken" and "boned turkey" contain very little meat, but are mostly skin and feathers. He finds that some kinds of deviled meat are largely composed of scraps and refuse. He finds borer and acid preparation in many makes of preserved meat. Massachusetts people will be gratified to know that he finds many slaughter houses conducted in an admirable way, and only one slaughter house in which conditions are especially dangerous to health. The report, which is in some respects sensational and in all respects very remarkable, follows:

'AM SANE AND STRONG, CRIES THAW IN HIS CELL

By Boston American Special Wire.
NEW YORK, July 11.—Harry K. Thaw, in his first extended talk with newspaper men since he was locked up in the Tombs charged with the murder of Stanford White, today took occasion to emphasize his contention that he is perfectly sane, and that there is no sign that he is about to break down. "I make no claim that I am in good physical and mental condition. There is no sign that I have been able to see of my breaking down," Thaw said. "I am sane and strong, and I am sane and strong."

On account of the revolutionizing conditions under which meat is sold to be canned in some of the Western States, the public has been warned that all canned meats to which their names are attached are made of meat. Complaint has been made by those whose product is of a high grade that their business has been done in a manner that is not fair. The fact that low-grade meat is used in the preparation of canned meats, which is a considerable number of cases, has been treated with considerable severity. In order that the public may know the truth with regard to canned meats, the State Board of Health has issued a report on the subject. The report is a long and detailed one, and contains many facts of interest. It is a report on the condition of the meat industry in the United States, and is a very valuable one.
